

Generosity Challenge

Before You Start:

Listen to Episode 58: www.go2.lc/YHIS58

We talked about the value of planned and spontaneous generosity, so here are some ideas and challenges for you and your LifeGroup to consider as you take steps to become more irrationally generous with your resources.

On Your Own

- Pay for the person behind you the next time you're in a drive-thru.
- Share a skill you have with someone else.
- Babysit a friend's kid for free.
- Give an unexpected compliment.
- Let someone go ahead of you in line.
- Help a neighbor bring in their groceries.
- Buy a gift card to your favorite restaurant or grocery store. The next time you see someone in need, give the gift card away.
- Keep a package of water bottles in your car and give them out on a hot day.
- Hold the door for the person behind you.
- Leave a sticky note with a positive note somewhere public.
- Check in on a friend or family member who you haven't connected with recently.

With Your Friends

- Sign up at www.life.church/neighbor to serve with a Local Mission Partner.
- Grab some trash bags and clean up a local park or nature center.
- Spend time with the elderly at a nursing home.
- Write cards for those who are incarcerated.
- Make a dinner for someone who recently had a baby or surgery.
- Pray for the people in your community.
- Buy treats for the teachers at a local school.
- Participate in a charity walk or run.
- Make and send care packages for service members.
- Offer to babysit for another LifeGroup.

Your Next Step:

Find one way to be generous each day for the next week. Switch it up between solo challenges and things you can do with friends.
